THE NUISANCE AT SEA CLIFF.

IS IT FROM THE DURYEA STARCH WORKS! WHAT A VISIT TO THE WORKS SHOWED-CESSPOOLS SUGGESTED AS THE CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE.

SUGGESTED AS THE CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE.

An account was published in THE TRIBUNE, yesterday, of a meeting held at Sea Cliff for the purpose of taking steps to abate a nuisance alleged to proceed from the Duryea Statch Works. The Starch Works were established at Gien Cove in 1855. They are about a mile and a quarter distant from Sea Cliff, upon an arm of the same bay upon which Sea Cliff is situated. This is called Hempstead Harbor. In 1879, S. L. M. Barlow and a Mr. Appleby, of Glen Cove, began a crusade against the Starch Works upon the ground that they created a nuisance. This was done through the local Board of Health. The Messrs Duryea obtained in Glen Cove a counter petition from two-thirds of the property owners of the township, in which the charge was denied. Mr. Barlow's property is not in the vicinity of the Starch Works, but occupies the headand at the head of the bay, where it joins the sound. The petition in favor of the Messrs. Duryea was signed by nearly all of the dwellers in the old parto Glen Cove which dates back more than a hundred years, and is actually on both sides of the Starch Works, which were originally built upon salt meadow land at the head of the inlet or creek. Into this inlet fails the overflow from Glen Cove pond, which is fed by natural springs. There is, therefore, a small stream of living water in the creek at all times, but it is navigable only at flood tide. The old portion of the vidaze was built on both sides of the pond. When the matter was discussed by the persons concerved in the presence of the local Board, Mr. Barlow abandoned the case, as all those who lived in the immediate vicinity of the alleged nuisance declared that it was no nuisance; among them were four doctors of Glen Cove and two chemists of New-York. Those who declared that the research the local long different that it was no nuisance.

clared that it was no nusance; among them were four doctors of Glen Cove and two chemists of New-York. Those who declared that there was a nuisance lived at a distance.

The present movement at Sea Cliff is based upon a belief entertained by the leading citizens that the tidal inlet at the head of which the Starch Works are established receives the drainage of the factory, including sulphuric acid and the refuse of the corn which is converted into starch. The sulphuric acid is used for the conversion of starch into glucose, one of the sulstances manufactured by the Messrs Duryea. It is a matter of common notoriety that the waters of the inlet at the factory and for some distance downward are white from matter discharged into it. I wo of the Messrs. Duryea, for of the seven brothers interested there are some always resident in Glen Cove, stated to a Tribunz reporter yesterday, and showed him by taking him around the entire establishment, that the substance which discolored the water resulted from the albumen detached in steeping the corn in hot water preparatory to grinding, and from the water used in washing the starch after it was manufactured. All that the water contains, they said, was pure albuminous matter which could have no effect save to give a nutritious value to the water which would help greatly to fatten orsters and claims. Wright Duryea, one of the brothers, said that he had tried the experiment successfully with oysters. With regard to the sulphuric acid, it was used in such a way that they have been destined by the contains the proportions according to the patented system, with a result of pure, absolutely limined glucose within a certain time. There was no escape possible under these conditions. Nor was there at the head of the milet any noxions effluvia, or any scum of any kind. The water was milky from the presence of albumen, and that was all.

Captain Daniel Murphy, who was unloading a corn schooner at the Starch Works, told the reporter that for twenty-five years he had been similarly engag

Com the presence of albumen, and that was all.

Captain Daniel Murpby, who was unloading a corn schooner at the Starch Works, told the reporter that for twenty-five years he had been similarly engaged, and that he regularly slept on toard, and that time. When the complaint of the inhabitants of Sea Cliff was explanued to him, he said: "It is impossible that their trouble comes from here. For why, Becos when the cibbtide makes, the water in the crik fall into the harbor and is carried out into the Sound one hour and better after the ebb tide makes at Sea Cliff and the head of our crib there's a bar par-ly above and parly below the water, as is marked with a white stake. When the ebb tide makes are marked with a white stake. When the ebb tide makes are marked with a white stake. When the bebt tide makes irom the crib, it comes against this here bar, and makes quite a swirling current, that bends off to the right hand, where it jimes with the ebb of the whole bay and is pretty strong, running in places five miles and bout. When flood them kees, anything bad, any sludge or bad seum as is in the Sound, might be swept in and would then get to Sea Cliff. But that might come from a hundred places aiong the Sound, specialty from ite works. That would kill fish perhaps, and would be deathon oysers sure enough. But the Hempstead Harbor is a great place for oysters, and fishermen takes seed oysters from here all the time. I guess there aint much studge in the harbor. When it does come it's from the Sound creating undeniable sensations of nanesa. The said difference, This is the first day of the return earlier of the works. That would kill fish perhaps, and would be deathon oysters from here all the time. I guess there aint much studge in the harbor. When it does come it's from the Sound creating undeniable sensations of nanesa. The said that the sagage depot of the Pennsyl-arity to flour in the Rections start of the whole bay and in the harbor. When it does come it's from the Sound creating undeniable sensations of nanesa.

these hundreds of cess-pools seep down to the water's e ige and are for the most part carried away by the tide. What remains is enough to create in invalids a loathing for food whenever fogs prevail with warm weather, and the effluvia then rises to the height of the dwellings in Sea Citif. When the east wind prevails it would carry the stench the east wind prevails it would carry the stenen in the same direction.

Wright Duryea stated that not one of the gentlemen who are foremost in the new movement, and who made speeches on Thursday might, has ever come to the works to investigate the facts. He hoped that the petition would be presented to the Governor and the State Board of Health, so that the gentlemen of Sea Cliff might get the crushing rebuke which he thought they merited.

DISCIPLINE IN THE POLICE FORCE. HOW THE COMMISSIONERS ARE HAMPERED IN PUN-

ISHING OFFENDERS.

President French, of the Board of Police, said yesterday to a Tribune reporter, in conversation about the discipline of the police force: "It ought to be understood by the public that the Police Commissioners are hampered greatly in the punishment of offending policemen. When an officer is found guilty of a felony, his removal from the force is obtained easily. When a policeman only breaks a rule of the Department, the Commissioners must try him according to the prescribed forms before he can be punished. Judgment must be passed upon the weight of evidence presented at the trial. It is as difficult to convict a policeman of a charge of 'conduct unbecoming an officer' as it is to convict a prisoner in a criminal court. Although the Commissioners may be convinced in their own minds that a policeman is not fit to remain on the force, it is imprudent for them to dismiss him unless the charge against him is sustained fully by the evidence. Since I have been a Police Commissioner nearly one-fourth of the men who have been dismissed from the force for good reasons have been put back again by order of the courts because the evidence against them was deemed insufficient or because of some technical flaw in the charge."

deemed insufficient or because of some technical flaw in the charge."

"Does the action of the courts in such cases have any influence on other policemen?"

"When the punishments inflicted by the Commissioners are overruled by the courts the effect is to demoralize the force. The policemen who are put back on the force after having been dismissed, receive pay for the whole time of their absence from duty. Thus the city loses their services, and instead of having been punished, the offenders have been given a vacation with pay."

punished, the offenders have been given a variation with pay."

"If policemen are guilty of misconduct, cannot the Commissioners procure the evidence necessary to punish them?"

"Policemen charged with offences have the advantage of us in the matter of evidence. They come before us willing to swear that black is white and that blue is no color at all, and they are able, generally, to procure witnesses who back them up in their assertions. We could not punish such witnesses for false swearing, because their evidence is not given in a court of record."

"Is there no way of punishing guilty policemen except by diamissing them?"

"We fine them as heavily as the law will permit when we do not think it prudent to dismiss them. The Commissioners, however, should have the power of summary dismissal. If we could say to policemen of all grades, 'Do your duty or we will put better men in your places,' the discipline of the force would be improved quickly. We could close up all the gambling nells and policy shops and enforce the excise law thoroughly throughout the city. Instead of heaping abuse upon the Commissioners for some of the failures of the police force, reformers would do well to inquire what influences are at work to tie the hands of the Commissioners."

DR. HUNTER'S MIND UNBALANCED. The body of Muiford S. Hunter, the dentist who shot himself at No. 264 Sixth-ave., on Friday night, shot himself at No. 264 Sixth-ave., on Friday night, was taken yesierday to an undertaker's shop in Seventh-ave., after the inquest by Coroner Martin at the New-York Hospital. It was embalmed, and word was sent to the dead man's relatives in Detroit, Mich. It is expected that the body will be sent there on Monday. Hunter came to New-York about five months ago, having practiced dentistry in Detroit for some time. He engaged in business at No. 284 Sixth-ave with Dr. Van Fleck, and they were doing well. After the death of his wife, Isabella Susini Hunter, to whom he was strongly devoted, Dr. Hunter acted strangely. There were reports at the time of her death last month of a suspicion of malpractice, but an investigation disproved the reports, and they were not believed by her parents. Dr. Hunter continued to dwell on this suspicion and his loss in a manner that became thresome to his acquaintances, who thought that his mind was weakened. But no trouble was apprehended from violence. He had been steady and correct in his habits, but it is stated that there was an hereditary taint of insanity in his family, and his mind is believed to have been completely unsettled by the death of his wife.

WELLS. FARGO & CO.—HIS PROMPT DISCHARGE.

The sum of $12,000 was found to be missing from the Winnipeg (Manitoba) office of Wells, Fargo & Co., on December 29 of last year. A clerk in the office said that he had left that amount of money on a scaffolding that had been put up in the office for repairing the ceiling. The scaffolding covered the safe and was littered with wet and dry plaster, lath and debris of different kinds. Samuel Logan, a Beifast frishman, had been doing the work of plastering and it was thought that he had taken the money, as he had gone home to Belf st a little before the time when the loss was discovered. The case was given into detectives hands. Logan came to New-York with his write about five weeks ago, took rooms at No. 235 West Tenth-st. and secured work as a bricklayer in One-hundred-and-Twelfth-st. All the time he was being watched by detectives. Recently Pinkerton's agency, which had charge of the case, received word from the Belfast police that Logan had been known to dispose of a large sum of money there before coming to New-York. Justice Donohue, of the Supreme Court, was applied to and an order for Logan's arrest was issued. On Friday evening one of Pinkerton's detectives and a companion went to Logan's house and found him eating supper with his family. When the order for arrest was shown, and the detective exhibited his badge, Logan accompanied him without offering any objection, after he had innished his supper. He was taken to the Stevens House for the uight. Yesterday morning Logan was taken before Justice Donohue, but was promptly discharged, when Mr. Bang's, of Pinkerton's accompanied him without offering any objection, after he had innished his supper. This exchange aims to be a complete mart where the vast aggregate of securities contraced under the title, "electric, manufacturing and miscellaneous," may be cealt in, a market value established, and transactions recorded with equal facility as in those listed upon the New-York Stock Exchange. The extent of actual capital invested in current securities issued by electric, manufacturing, insurance, bank,gas, street, car, railroad, and other stock companies which have no representative market, bears no small comparison to that invested in listed securities.

At the office of the company it was said yesterday At the office of the company it was said yearcray that the new exchange would deal only in securities of established value, which are not now "listed" at the Stock Exchange, and that it would not touch mining stocks or oil certificates. The utmost care would be taken, it was said, in admitting to dealings only such securities as had intrinsic worth. The field for the operations of the proposed exchange was said to be a wide one.

A DISHONEST CUSTOMS CLERK.

Bills to the amount of $4,000 have been placed in the hands of the Pistrict-Attorney by Collector Roberts in for collection from Levi Farr, a clerk who has been for years employed in the Custom House, in the Fifth Division, under Colonel Bart-rain. The charge is made that Farr has for several years been withholding from his books entries under which additional duties were collected, and that this was done in collusion with a broker, tho sums of which the Customs Department was deprived aggregating about $4,000. A few days ago Colonel Bartrain, whose suspicions regarding Farr's entries had been aroused, endeavored to get an explanation. He satisfied himself that Farr had been withholding entries in the case of an importer of glass named Cahn. It was discovered that most of the dates were in 1879 and 1880, and thus in the term of office of ex Collector Merrit; two of them, however, were more recent. Colonel Bartrain placed his statement before Collector Robertson, who two or three days ago discharged Farr and Bills to the amount of $4,000 have been placed in who two or three days ago discharged Farr and placed his accounts in the hands of the District-Attorney, who is now investigating them, with a view to beginning the proper actions in the case.

JAMES WILSON DISCHARGED. JAMES WILSON DISCHARGED.

James Wilson, who is known to the police by several aliases, was examined yesterday before Commissioner Osborn on a charge of being concerned in the robbery of the post-office in New Milford, Conn., on May 4. Detective Hickey testified that he had arrested Wilson, and found in his possession $60 in one-cent, two-cent, three-cent, four-cent, five-cent and teu-cent stamps. James Oliver, the prisoner's counsel, asked the detective how he came to arrest Wilson. The detective said that he found the prisoner in Nassau'st, and, knowing him to have a bad reputation, arrested him as a suspicious person.

"He was walking quietly on the street, was he not?" asked the counsel.

"He was walking quietly on the street, was he not?" asked the counsel,
"Yes, but we have orders to arrest a professional thief whenever we see him down town."
As there was no evidence of Wilson's guilt except the possession of stamps, the prisoner was discharged on his own recognizance. As Wilson had stated that the stamps had been given him by someone else, the stamps were retained by the District Attorney to await demand by their owner.
